CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

Presbyterian Support Otago has supported the Otago community for more than 109 years. Since establishment in 1906, primarily to care for children living in poverty, we have expanded our services to meet broader community needs, most notably in support of older people. Throughout our long history, volunteers and donors have played a key role in building our capacity to assist people in need.

This year we are particularly grateful for the community's support and the estimated 32,600 volunteer hours given to help us meet growing demand for services and achieve high levels of quality in all that we do. Whether it's sharing time with an older person in their home, sorting clothing in our op shops, or teaching a young person to ride a bike, our volunteers have made a difference to the lives of many people in Otago. Thank you.

Services to support Otago's ageing population and the shortage of quality, affordable housing remain key issues facing the community. As a board, our work this year has been focused on these issues and what Presbyterian Support Otago's role in addressing them could be. We have committed to a responsible expansion of services to meet growing demand for residential dementia and aged care, with developments at Iona in Oamaru and the Aspiring Enliven Care Centre in Wanaka. We continue to explore strategies, in collaboration with others, to address the persistent affordable housing issue. It is not an issue we can resolve alone, but one we are committed to taking action on.

There are a number of important acknowledgements I wish to make. I would like to acknowledge the dedication and commitment of staff and volunteers in response to the June flood this year. I am very proud of their swift and compassionate response. The Family Works team continues to work in partnership with the Dunedin City Council and others to support flood-affected families. There is still a considerable amount to be done in helping people re-establish their homes.

Secondly, I would like to record the Board's acknowledgment of the calibre and commitment of our Chief Executive, Gillian Bremner, and her team. The person-centred service model they promote and their encouragement of staff members to be pro-active in their roles, while at the same time developing healthy, balanced personal lifestyles, is commendable.

Early this year John Angus, a valued Board Member and former New Zealand Children's Commissioner, from Cromwell, died. John made a significant contribution to the Board's work with his expertise, experience and interest in children and their families. John's contribution will be missed.

Finally, to my Board colleagues, thank you for the time and expertise you so willingly bring to the table, and for the opportunities you help us create to make a difference, together.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE'S REPORT

This year has seen our organisation continue its strong advocacy for healthy, warm, affordable housing. Our July 2014 research report, Out in the Cold, identified some improvements since our previous investigation into Dunedin rental housing 10 years ago. However, many families still pay significantly more than 30% of their income (some as much as 50%) on rent for housing that is neither well insulated, nor maintained.

I was therefore very pleased to hear the Minister of Building and Housing announce plans to strengthen the Residential Tenancies Act requiring all tenanted properties to include floor and ceiling insulation by mid 2019, while social housing receiving government subsidies will require insulation by July 2016. Could a rental property warrant of fitness, such as we've been advocating for more than 10 years, become a reality in the future? It does look more promising.

The Cosy Homes Trust, established in February 2015, is another positive outcome of our community activism in relation to warm and affordable housing. Together with the Chair, Mayor Cull, and three other trustees, I am working towards achieving the Trust's mission of "every Dunedin home warm and cosy by 2025".

The Family Works New Zealand Development Programme was completed during the year resulting in a National Practice Framework and Operations Manual. This document provides a framework for designing, planning, delivering and evaluating Family Works services and programmes across the seven Presbyterian Support regions. We are now, collectively, in a better position to measure the impact of our services across New Zealand, report outcomes and continuously improve our services.

Two independent evaluations in the past year, where past participants of Youth Grow and the Buddy Programme were interviewed, have confirmed the positive benefits of these interventions.

Participants consistently reported improved relationships with others and high levels of engagement with education and employment.

Presbyterian Support Otago has received a number of additional accreditations and quality certifications during the year. We received tertiary accreditation for Workplace Safety Management with ACC which means that auditors have assessed our organisation as demonstrating best practice and a commitment to continuous improvement in workplace health and safety.

Our care homes also continue to achieve recognition for the quality of service they provide with St Andrews, Iona and Ranui all achieving the highest level of quality certification from the New Zealand Ministry of Health in 2014/15. Five of Presbyterian Support Otago's seven care homes now hold this level of certification - a strong endorsement of our services and staff.

As we face the year ahead with significant change signalled in social service contracting, I want to thank the Board, Staff, Volunteers and Donors for the contribution they all make here in Otago.

FAMILY WORKS

Family Works services are supporting children/tamariki, young people/rangatahi and families/whānau in Otago to achieve positive outcomes and build their resilience to manage future challenges. Our skilled and qualified workforce includes social workers, advisors and counsellors, many of whom are also accredited to facilitate group programmes for parents, children, young people and adults.

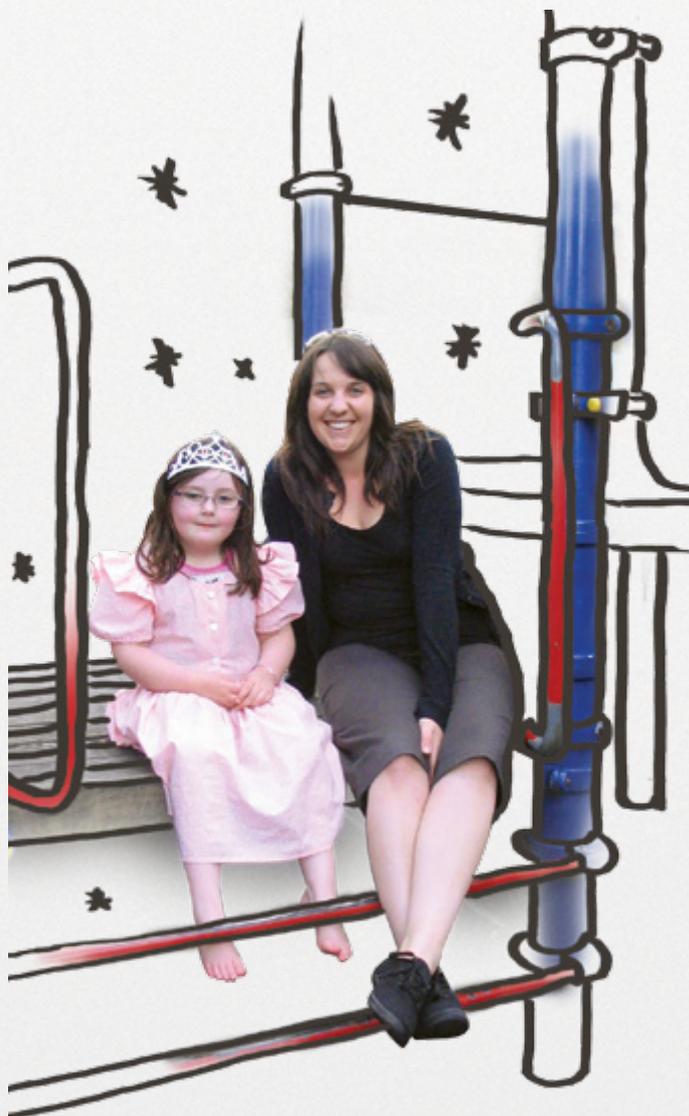

Our approach also recognises the importance of community to the wellbeing of a child. Presbyterian Support Otago works with a number of communities to create safer, more connected neighbourhoods where residents feel a stronger sense of belonging and responsibility for each other. This approach is called “community development” and is having a positive impact in local areas including Caversham, Green Island and Oamaru.

The Family Works team, supported by numerous volunteers and donors, helped over 5,400 people across Otago in the past year. From Oamaru to Balclutha and west to Wanaka, Family Works reached out to families and children in need.

“Rock on Family Works, you have provided myself and my whānau an awesome service, thank you...” (Leah, February 2015)

One of the most enduring and beneficial services we deliver is the Buddy Programme. Young children facing family or social challenges are paired with a volunteer adult buddy to enjoy ‘kids stuff’ – visits to the park, bike riding, board games, conversation and companionship. The programme aims to build resilience in young people. Through an increase in self-esteem, generated by the attention and friendship of an adult mentor, Young Buddies are better able to cope with life’s ups and downs.

In the past year demand for the Buddy Programme has grown, particularly in rural areas. With generous financial support from the West Trust, the Central Lakes Trust and numerous private donors, we appointed two part-time staff members to help meet this growing demand. 164 children participated in the Programme last year, all of whom appreciated having time with an adult that was just for them. A recent evaluation of the programme found that overwhelmingly, participating children felt valued by their Adult Buddy, helping them build confidence and self esteem.

Knowing Holly’s mother sees such a positive change in her, makes my Buddy volunteering really worthwhile.

Our greatest challenge in this service is the availability of suitable volunteer Adult Buddies. We rely on the willingness of adult volunteers to share their experience, kindness and compassion with a young person in need of support. We will continue to call out to the community to assist us with this immensely beneficial programme and greatly value the contribution our existing band of volunteers has made over the past year.

Since 4 June 2015, Family Works staff have been deeply involved in helping people affected by floods in Dunedin and Taieri. More than 1,250 people were affected and nearly 300 homes seriously damaged. In collaboration with other social service agencies and the Dunedin City Council, Family Works provided immediate assistance delivering food parcels, bedding, furniture and clothing. We received a fantastic response from the community who donated generously to help families in need. Family Works continues to support 23 flood-affected families with processes such as securing accommodation, making an insurance claim, applying to WINZ for emergency relief and counselling services.

“It has been wonderful to have the practical and emotional support from Presbyterian Support over the past two months. I don’t know how I could have coped without them.” (Mother of two who, lost all her furniture in the flood, July 2015).

A community development approach has been applied to our Stepping Stones programme for people living with mental health issues, in South Dunedin. During 2014/15 Stepping Stones participants joined in Caversham Neighbours Day, making items for sale at the stalls, helping with set up and pack down, and meeting people from their neighbourhood. Participants have also worked on projects to support other community organisations such as the Curtain Bank, by making draught stoppers for families in need. These interactions with others in the community help build enduring and meaningful relationships for people who do not easily make such connections. Stepping Stones has 46 active participants attending weekly activities and is supported by a variety of volunteer ‘special guests’ who share their talents and skills in areas such as photography, cooking, gardening, budgeting or music.

Our community development approach across Family Works services also embraces partnerships with other organisations, including government, non-government, church groups and businesses, to help achieve positive outcomes for local people. We have valued working with many partners over the past year to achieve the outcomes highlighted in this report.

SERVICES FOR OLDER PEOPLE

Some things make for happier, healthier living, no matter what your age. A sense of community; friends, family/ whānau; giving and receiving; making decisions for yourself; and, most of all, practical support when you need it. The Presbyterian Support Otago Services for Older People team works alongside clients and their families to achieve these things.

Our services include community-based social activities, retirement living options and residential aged care.

Our service philosophy aims to maximise opportunities for residents and clients to regain connection to community and family. One example of this is the weekly Plunket playgroup at St Andrews, Dunedin. Each week the group meets at St Andrews, with residents invited to assist or simply watch the children play. This project is a real highlight for all involved and residents delight in the opportunity to interact with young children and their families.

Our activity programmes for older people, Club Enliven (Alexandra) and Maybank (Dunedin), are also very popular. These programmes give older people living at home the opportunity to step out and socialise by engaging in intellectual and gentle physical activity, in the company of others. Topical discussions, cooking, listening to music and the occasional field trip are all greatly enjoyed by participants. More than 120 people attended during the year, amounting to 2,953 individual activity sessions. 100% of participants surveyed agree that “this service has made a positive difference to my life.”

“Maybank is a marvellous place to come to and has been a life saver for me. Thank you.”

(Participant May 2015)

Club activities also offer much needed respite for family members who have assumed a caring role for their loved one. Participants and staff gratefully received support from 49 dedicated volunteers throughout the year, making the delivery of so many activities possible.

The Southern District Health Board extended Presbyterian Support Otago’s contract to provide Individualised Funding for another two years, a strong endorsement of the professionalism of our service. This programme for people over 65 gives participants control over how funding for their needs is spent. With guidance from our staff, participants may contract directly with health professionals to meet their care needs. The service contract is operating at capacity, with a waiting list in place.

It’s wonderful to have a baby on my knee again.
Watching the playgroup is really special.

Presbyterian Support Otago made significant service changes in regional Otago to meet growing community demand for dementia care. Development at Iona, Oamaru, will provide care for an additional 14 people living with dementia. The development includes innovations such as a reminiscence room, the provision of buffet-style meals, and secure outdoor garden space. In November 2014 the Presbyterian Support Otago Board approved the construction of accommodation for 20 people living with dementia at the Aspiring Enliven Care Centre to be built in Wanaka. This joint venture project will be undertaken with Aspiring Lifestyle Retirement Village and includes 19 flexible hospital/rest home rooms and one hospice suite. It is anticipated that construction will commence in October 2015.

The quality of our residential aged care services was once again recognised during the year with St Andrews, Iona and Ranui all achieving the highest level of quality certification from the New Zealand Ministry of Health. Five of Presbyterian Support Otago's seven care homes now hold this level of certification.

These external endorsements are mirrored in the results of our internal satisfaction and quality review programme. Resident satisfaction surveys consistently record a high level of satisfaction with our services. People rate highly the caring nature of our staff, the sense of security they have and quality of care received.

OUR SUPPORTERS

Presbyterian Support Otago is very fortunate to have a generous group of supporters giving their time, money and goodwill to assist our work. It is only with their help that we have achieved so much over the past year for the people of Otago. Thank you.

With the help of grants from organisations such as the Otago Community Trust, Perpetual Trust and Tindall Foundation, we provided assistance to many more people in the past year than would have otherwise been possible. Demand for food parcels grew by 54% during 2014/15, from 2,205 parcels to 3,400 parcels. We simply could not provide this growing volume of food without philanthropic trust and donor support.

Presbyterian Support Otago received a very strong response from the community during and after the Dunedin flood in June. Family Works staff and volunteers were able to re-distribute truck-loads of donated furniture, clothing and bedding to many families and individuals affected by the flood. The community also got behind our major annual food bank drive, Octacan, in record numbers this year. Held two weeks after the flood on a cold and wet June day, the Dunedin community gave 14,577 food items to help local families in need.

Our opportunity shops also received great support from donors, volunteers and customers. The three stores performed well in a tough retail environment making a significant contribution to Presbyterian Support's operating budget. This would not be possible without the help of our many dedicated "op shop" volunteers and shoppers.
